

Teamster is geared for flexibility. The organization and the production system are adapted to the requirements of the market for a quick reaction to the customer's desires, rapid reconfiguration of the production process and swift delivery of the finished components.

Teamster has built up technical expertise which is unique in the field, and today is Estonian leading supplier of wave soldering pallets. With the resources and know-how for sophisticated projects and new challenges, Teamster lives up to the requirements of the market for quality and reliable delivery.

Teamster wishes to be a partner in a joint effort to produce solutions. A well-educated staff views giving advice on the basis of the customer's needs as a highly important task.

Development, design, production and machining of wave solder pallets is Teamster's core activity.
